The Historical Context of the Battle of Little Bighorn

Background and Causes

The late 19th century was a period of intense conflict between Native American tribes and the expanding United States government. After decades of displacement, warfare, and broken treaties, tensions reached a boiling point. The discovery of gold in the Black Hills of South Dakota, sacred land for the Lakota, intensified the conflict, prompting U.S. authorities to push for control over Native territories. Key causes leading up to the battle include: - The encroachment of settlers and prospectors into Native lands - The U.S. government's broken treaties and promises - The Native American tribes' resistance to forced relocation - The formation of the Great Sioux Reservation

The Lead-Up to the Battle

In 1876, Native tribes, led by prominent leaders such as

Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse, united to resist the U.S. military's efforts to confine them to reservations. Custer's Seventh Cavalry was dispatched to suppress this resistance, culminating in the infamous clash at Little Bighorn River, near modern-day Crow Agency, Montana.

Strategic Failures and Key Factors

The Battle's Course

The battle unfolded rapidly, with Custer's troops engaging the Native camps in a bid to disarm and disperse them. However, the Native warriors, led by Crazy Horse and Sitting Bull, mounted a fierce defense. Historical Context: The Lead-Up to Little Bighorn

Understanding the events that led to the Battle of Little Bighorn requires a grasp of the broader socio-political landscape of the 1870s. The U.S. Government's Policy and Native American Resistance During this period, the U.S. government's policies aimed to confine Native American tribes to reservations, often violating treaties and disregarding indigenous sovereignty. Tensions escalated as gold prospectors and settlers moved into the Black Hills and other tribal territories, particularly after the discovery of gold in 1874. The U.S. Army's Campaigns Against Native Tribes In response, the U.S. military launched campaigns to suppress Native resistance, culminating in several confrontations. The Seventh Cavalry, led by Custer, was at the forefront of these efforts, tasked with forcing Native tribes onto reservations. The Gathering of Native Forces The Sioux, Cheyenne, and Arapaho tribes united under leaders like Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse to defend their lands. Their gathering near the Little Bighorn River in June 1876 created a powerful force that would challenge U.S. military ambitions.
