It acts as a bridge, maintaining the narrative of an NCO's ongoing development, accomplishments, and areas for improvement. For military personnel, especially those preparing to submit or review their NCOERs, understanding how to craft an effective Letter of Continuity (LOC) is essential. This article provides an in-depth analysis of a typical example letter of continuity, dissecting its structure, key components, and best practices—serving as a comprehensive guide for soldiers, NCOs, and administrative personnel alike.

Understanding the Purpose of a Letter of Continuity in NCOERs

Before delving into an example, it's important to understand why a Letter of Continuity is needed. Why Is a Letter of Continuity Necessary? An NCOER evaluates an NCO's performance over a specific reporting period. When transitioning from one report to the next, the evaluation process benefits from providing context—highlighting the individual's previous accomplishments, ongoing projects, or developmental areas. The LOC: - Ensures continuity in the evaluation narrative. - Prevents gaps or redundancies in performance documentation. - Provides the next reviewer with a comprehensive understanding of the NCO's career progression. When Is an LOC Used? Typically, an LOC is incorporated into the NCOER when: - A report is being continued from a previous period. - The NCO has demonstrated significant ongoing performance. - The reviewer or rater wants to emphasize a sustained commitment or development.

Structural Components of an Example Letter of Continuity

A well-constructed LOC follows a clear, professional format. The typical structure includes several key sections, each serving a specific purpose: 1. Opening Statement The opening succinctly introduces the purpose of the letter, referencing the previous evaluation period and establishing the context for continuity. 2. Summary of Previous Performance This section highlights the NCO's key achievements and performance during the prior evaluation period, establishing a baseline for ongoing evaluation. 3. Current Performance and Continuing Development The core of the LOC, it discusses how the NCO has maintained or built upon previous accomplishments, ongoing projects, leadership qualities, and areas for growth. 4. Future Expectations and Recommendations Provides guidance and expectations for the upcoming period, emphasizing continued development and leadership potential. 5. Closing Statement A professional conclusion that reaffirms support for the NCO and underscores the importance of ongoing performance.

Dissecting an Example Letter of Continuity

Let's examine a sample LOC, breaking down each section to understand how it effectively communicates continuity and professional assessment.

Sample Letter of Continuity

> Subject: Letter of Continuity for SGT John A. Doe, 1st Battalion, 503rd Infantry Regiment > > It is my privilege to provide a Letter of Continuity for Sergeant John A. Doe, covering his previous evaluation period from 1 March 2022 to 28 February 2023, and continuing into the current assessment cycle. During this period, SGT Doe demonstrated exceptional leadership, technical proficiency, and a steadfast commitment to the mission and his soldiers. > > In the previous evaluation, SGT Doe was recognized for his outstanding performance in leading platoon operations, mentoring junior soldiers, and executing complex training exercises that significantly improved unit readiness. His initiative in developing a new training protocol resulted in a 20% increase in qualification rates across his team. > > Since then, SGT Doe has maintained his high standards, taking on additional responsibilities such as platoon sergeant, where he has continued to excel in personnel management, tactical expertise, and fostering a positive command climate. His dedication to soldier development is evident in his mentorship, which has led to two soldiers earning their promotion to specialist. > > Looking ahead, SGT Doe is expected to assume a squad leader role, where his leadership and operational skills will be invaluable. His ongoing professional development includes completing the Senior Leader Course and pursuing certification in combat lifesaving, which will further enhance his contributions. > > I fully support SGT Doe's continued growth and am confident he will uphold the standards of excellence in the upcoming period. His proven track record of leadership, professionalism, and commitment makes him an invaluable asset to our unit.

Avoid jargon or overly complex sentences. Clarity ensures your message is understood and professional.
